Press Release From Barrett®

USMC increases quantity of Barrett M107 rifles

In 2007 Congressional action increased the total operational strength of the United States Marine Corp from 175,000 Marines to 202,000 Marines. The addition of 27,000 new Marines has increased the need for more equipment including the M107. The Barrett M107 is the USMC .50 BMG long range rifle and Barrett has recently shipped additional units in the fall of 2008 to the Marines and will deliver more in early 2009. The Marines were an early user with Barrett and they deployed the M82A3 series rifle for many years. The current configuration of the M107 is equipped with the Schmidt and Bender telescopic sight built to their specifications.

Barrett Firearms Manufacturing, Inc is the supplier of its .50 caliber long range rifles to all of the United States Military Services: USAF, USN, USMC, USA, and USCG. In addition 59 of our Allied Militaries are current customers with the list continuing to grow. Barrett is proud to have the United States Marines defending this great country and as a customer of its M107 rifle.
